

opened an academy in what is now HORTON's apartment house. On this farm stands the house from which General TYSON's father carried away his beautiful bride.

On the same side of the road in an oak grove resides A. P. TURNAGE, two years the senior of A. J. MOYE, his wife, Carrie SPEIGHT TURNAGE, Lester and wife and children.

Near LANG's Cross Roads is Jesse BAKER's filling station and menagerie. BAKER's has not been robbed, if it is so reported in the papers. No, sir, LANGE's Cross Roads is fortified against robbery, for Mrs. Jesse BAKER surely sees to it that no one assaults Jesse and gets away with it. Why Jesse has a live wolf and an alligator and several other strange creatures on his school house property."

Reprinted Pitt County Genealogical Quarterly, August 2000